Started rivetting the inner part of the right wing skin. I won't repeat the details as the process is the same as on the left wing.

Work in L-shape. The part under the wing walk doubler is the hardest. But by now, I got the hang of it and it went a bit smoother as on the left one.

I won't be posting many pictures and focus on the work to speed up work a bit.

I'm working in short 3 hour sessions and doing a bit at a time.
